

1. A system for professional development, said system comprising the steps of:
providing training that teaches skills;
providing a matrix for said training, wherein said matrix incorporates said skills learned in said training into the workflow and daily activities of a professional undergoing said training;
providing work sheets and guidelines within said matrix for integrating said training into an environment wherein said professional works;
assessing the success of said training in improving the performance of said professional;
and
providing evaluations of the success of said training.
2. A system as in claim 1, wherein said step of providing evaluations of the success of said training, further comprises providing evaluations to said supervisor of said professional.
3. A system as in claim 1, wherein said step of providing evaluations of the success of said training, further comprises providing evaluations to said professional for self-assessment.
4. A system as in claim 1, wherein said training is professional development training.
5. A system in claim 1, wherein said training is provided on-line.

6. A system in claim 5, wherein said on-line training comprises audio, video or DVD training.

7. A system for professional development, said system comprising the steps of:
- providing on-line professional development training;
- providing a matrix for said on-line professional development training, wherein said
- matrix incorporates skills learned in said professional development training into
- the workflow and daily activities of a professional undergoing said professional
- development training;
- providing work sheets and guidelines within said matrix for integrating said professional
- development training into said professional's environment;
- assessing the success of said professional development training in improving the
- performance of said professional; and
- providing evaluations of the success of said professional.
8. The system of claim 1, wherein said matrix is based on standards provided by an industry.

9. In a system that includes a computer device, a method for providing professional training and development, the method comprising steps for:
- providing information to a user, wherein said information relates to a particular profession;
- enabling said user to learn skills and knowledge from said information that can be incorporated into said user's particular profession;
- enabling said user to organize an instructional plan relating to said information, wherein said instructional plan is based on said skills and knowledge acquired by said user
- ~~and;~~ and
- electronically assessing said user's knowledge of the information.
10. A system as in claim 9, wherein said step of providing information to a user further comprises said user accessing said information on-line.
11. A system as in claim 9, wherein said information is based on standards regulating said particular profession.